6:00 - 7:30 P.M. | PARISH HALL

Parishioner James Wilson will lead a class examining the writings of William Faulkner and his complicated and often misunderstood relationship to Christianity. The class will focus less on Faulkner's personal biography and public statements on religion, which are often vague and contradictory, and more on several of Faulkner's major works. This class will not only help us gain a preliminary understanding of complicated author, but also help us re-imagine our own faith and its meaning and significance in contemporary life. To register, please contact Melinda Balsler at mbalsler@christcathedral.org

Her patronage includes private collections, museums, and churches. Please join us in welcoming Sister Eliseea on Sunday, October 1, from 3 to 4:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall. Several icons will be for sale and she happily takes commissions for new work.

2017 FALL SYMPOSIUM

REFUGEE FAITH: DISPLACEMENT, HOMECOMING, AND GOD'S HEART

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6 AND SATURDAY, OCTOBER 7

The fall symposium will feature Dr. C. Melissa Snarr, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and Associate Professor of Ethics and Society, Vanderbilt Divinity School.

The international refugee crisis and the unfolding national debate over for whom and how we provide sanctuary provides the backdrop for Dr. Snarr's weekend series about how biblical stories of refugees teach us about the nature and purposes of God. Drawing on her research on interfaith activism for immigrants and refugees, Dr. Snarr offers theologically rich and strategically insightful suggestions for what it means to recognize ours as a "refugee faith" and live our common call accordingly. Dr. Snarr's research focuses on the intersection of religion, social change, and political ethics. As a Christian social ethicist, she draws on a variety of methodologies, with special concentration in sociological and political theory as well as comparative religious ethics to understand how religion transforms the world. Dr. Snarr seeks to bridge the worlds of religious activists and academic ethicists to deepen the understanding of religious traditions and practices in order to enhance the work for justice.
